THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

by Stan Schepers, APC President

HELLO EVERYONE,

First off I would like to THANK JEFF SERDY for the great information on Skinning & Fur Prep. GREAT JOB JEFF, THANKS.....

The weather has finally changed. This is the best time of the year to get out & call. The fur is prime, the colder it gets the better. Predators need to eat meat for protein to help them stay warm so that helps put the ODDS in your favor, GOOD LUCK.....

The World Championship has come & gone. The weather wasn't too nice; lots of rain. Snow would have been better. We had aprox. 180 coyotes to skin. We barely could find 30 that were good, they turned bad fast, weather was to warm. Last year they were frozen when they checked in. We skinned 80 dogs with only a few bad ones.

The 11TH ANNUAL FUR DONATION HUNT IS JAN. 5TH 2008. I will have a sign up sheet @ the meeting & all information needed. This is a fun hunt. $ 5.00 fee for all you can eat & lots of prizes.

HOPE TO SEE YOU ALL THERE!!!!
WONDERFUL HOLIDAY !!

HOPE EVERYONE HAS A SAFE &

Stan

Hunt Report

by Dusty Mosier, Hunt Chairman

Well, the World Championships are over, and for all of you who missed it, it was a lot of fun. My partner, Tom Thornhill, and I drove up to Williams Thursday afternoon for the pre-hunt sign-in. Seventy some teams were there to pay fees, place bets, sign waivers, and go over the rules. We were cut free around 7 o'clock to scatter like quail, every one heading to their favorite areas. Tom and I headed back to Chandler, as we were hunting south on Friday.

At 5 am we loaded up and headed out to our first stand with great expectations. Everything was right, not many people around, overcast skies, incoming storm and hunting places where I have called and killed before. Eight stands and several hours later not a coyote had been seen, yet there was sign everywhere. Not to be discouraged, we picked up and moved 50 miles to area #2.

Just as we were nearing our next stand the rain hit like a waterfall. We picked our way north trying to call in between showers, still managed to not see any coyotes. The rain eventually got heavier with no breaks. We reached our motel wet and slightly discouraged trying to figure a new battle plan for Saturday.

Saturday morning the rain continued, all of the desert roads leading to our area were blocked by rushing, boiling brown water cluttered with debris. Another jump was in order, 60 miles to a back-up area. The hard rain had turned into brief showers and a cold wind. We still manged 4 more stands and called in a doe but no coyotes. Now we were starting to get discouraged so we headed to the check-in.

Along the way I remembered a spot where we had called and killed a fox last spring. We took a short side trip, stopped, jumped out, walked in 50 yards to a rocky creek bottom with our shotguns. 90 seconds later, BOOM, one fox in the truck. At least we didn't get completely skunked.

Now we blasted to the check-in, arriving with 5 minutes to spare. Not everyone had bad luck. There was a large trailer piled with stinky coyotes to be skinned. Further down the way was our APC trailer with two beautiful ladies preparing gourmet chili-dogs and cold drinks. What a great sight, doesn't get any better than that. The awards banquet was fun, although it seemed to take a long time (we were pretty tired). With our bellies full of steak and beer we headed down the hill. We made it home after midnight and it was lights out. What a fun time we had. You should try and make it next year.

On the Stand

by Larry Walden, APC Special Events Coordinator

This month - On the Stand with APC Member: Ned Burriss

Ned began hunting with the APC in 1995. Ned is the most consistent producer among all of our club members. When most hunters arrive at check-in with nothing but stories, Ned pulls up and unloads his bag of predators. I have seen this happen time and time again. It doesn't matter what the conditions are... swirling wind, rain or snow, cold or hotNed brings in the varmints. If my life depended on it and I had to pick one hunter to go out and bring in a predator in order to save meNed is the guy I would pick.

Ned puts up all his fur each year and takes it to the annual sale in Globe, AZ. In 2006 Ned and his partner finished 6th in the World Coyote Calling Championships in Williams, AZ.

1. How did you get started predator hunting?

I noticed an ad in the Mesa Tribune for the Mesa Varmint Callers* who met at the Mesa Public Library on the 2nd Tuesday of each month. "Well it was the 2nd Tuesday", Ned said, "So I went to my first meeting". Note: * The Mesa Varmint Callers have evolved into the Arizona Predator Callers (APC).

2. Who has had the most influence on your predator hunting career?

APC members Leonard Colpits and Jeff Serdy.

3. What is your favorite time of the year for hunting predators? December.

4. What is your favorite Arizona hunt unit for predator hunting? Unit 41.

5. Name a couple of your favorite predator hunting "mouth" calls?

Tally Ho Pee Wee Critter call

6. Do you use electronic calls? If so, what brand/model do you use and what are the three most effective "sounds"?

Yes, FoxPro. Cottontail, Jackrabbit and bird in distress sounds.

7. Do you use decoys? If yes, what kind?

Yes, Feather Flex Turkey decoy and a feather hanging from my FoxPro.

8. Do you use cover scent? If so, what do you use?

Yes, Gray Fox urine.

9. Name 3 important factors to consider when on or approaching a predator hunting stand. Of the three which is the most critical?

• Wind direction • Being quiet • Elevation
Wind direction is the most important.

10. Describe your most memorable predator hunt.

In 1997 Mike* and I hunted our way to Globe, AZ and made a loop back to Phoenix. We got 8 Grey Fox, killed 4 coyotes, called and missed 1 bobcat, and Mike killed a Mountain Lion I called in with a Tally Ho. *Mike Burris (APC Vice President) is Ned's brother.

11. What is your favorite predator to hunt? Why?

Bobcats – because they are the toughest to call.

12. Describe your single most successful predator stand?

I was hunting with Stan Schepers (APC President) and on one stand I called 4 coyotes and 1 bobcat. I got 2 of the coyotes and the bobcat. Ned said, "Stan was positioned on the other side of a Greasewood tree and after it was all over Stan asked me what I was shooting at?"

Note: Stan claims Ned told him to sit down in a hole behind the Greasewood tree where he couldn't see anything.

13. Describe your most disastrous predator hunting adventure?

In 1999 Mike and I began a canoe trip down the Gila River. The canoe turned over and everything, including Mike and I, went into the river. It took us 15 to 20 minutes to locate our gear and get back to the bank. Our guns were locked up with silt so we headed home cold and wet. Then our truck got stuck in the sand. We finally made it back to Phoenix having never hunted during the entire trip.

14. What is your favorite predator hunting rifle/caliber/bullet and shotgun/gauge/load?

22-250 rifle 10 GA shotgun shooting 31/2 " shells loaded with BBs.

Ned takes both rifle and shotgun to each stand.

15. What is your favorite camo / pattern?

Mossy Oak Advantage Leafy Wear.

16. Name your favorite annual APC hunt or activity.

The 3 Club Hunt.

17. What is your number one predator hunting goal?

To call and harvest a bear.

18. What development (equipment, strategy or tactic) has most influenced predator hunting during the last 5-10 years?

FoxPro electronic call.

19. What Arizona Game & Fish hunting regulation would you change?

I would like to be able to shoot Mountain Lions with a shotgun using shot.

20. What do you consider to be the greatest threat to the future of predator hunting?

Hunters shooting coyotes and leaving them in the field. Wasting resources.

21. Describe your dream big game/predator hunt.

Hunting whitetails in Canada.

Hunting coyotes and wolves in Canada.

Could You Survive?

by Mike Mosier

For just one night, alone, in the White Mountains of Arizona, could you survive? With night temperatures below freezing, could you do it? If you had a survival kit and all the resources needed, would you know how to use everything to stay alive? Would you stay calm? How would you do it? As an Eagle Scout, born into an outdoor family, I knew I could. The story of my recent disorientation becoming a survival situation may help you better understand how simple it can be.

In the late fall, the scenery in the White Mountains, just South of Alpine, AZ, is breathtaking. My father, my sister and I, had deer tags for Unit 27, so we decided to hunt the north edge, where lots of big trees, big canyons and big mountains, make ATV use ideal. In this primitive country along the eastern edge of Arizona, the roads are many, and spider web throughout the big country. The difference between this honeycomb of roads and ones found in the desert are elevation. Many roads parallel each other at different levels of a canyon, reaching out, connecting and allowing access to meadows, saddles, ridges and valleys. Many have forks that are directional, meaning the other road is at an angle, and may not be visible from both directions. This can get confusing and misleading, especially after dark, where the tall trees, deep canyons and big mountains, make for a very, very dark night, when even the star's light is blocked. This situation caused my disorientation.

Friday morning I sat at the edge of a huge field waiting and watching for deer. After the constant aerial attack of debris from the squirrels, I realized, again, that the deer must've read the paper. I packed up, headed back to bike, and started looking for predators. I found a couple great spots, called, but to no prevail. On the last stand, I set up at the bottom of two canyons, and started calling. 30 minutes in, the hair on the back of my neck started to crawl. I turned around real slow to find two wolves, less than 30 yards up the hill behind me. Both, after looking at me, behind them, then back at me, sulked away. I knew there were more, probably trying to slash my tires. I packed up, crept up the hill, and drove off into the setting sun. Now it was getting dark, fast. So, I began the trip back to camp, but thanks to the directional forks in the roads, I soon became disoriented. By the fourth time driving past the same ugly tree stump, I grew frustrated. With half a tank of gas, and who knows how far from camp, I knew what I needed to do.

Cold, hungry, and frustrated with myself, an Eagle Scout who is LOST, I prayed. Turning at a bend in the road, I spotted a fire pit. As I drove into the empty campsite, I noticed a huge pile of split logs, a gift from God. Parked with headlights shining, I built a fire. With night-log in place, fire blazing, I started building a lean-to at the mouth of the fire pit. Walls almost 2 feet high, the horseshoe shape reflected most of its heat out of the opening into my shelter. I moved

the woodpile within arms reach from my bed of green pine bows.

Using my emergency sleeping bag to line the inside of my lean-to, I created an oven. With the cold no longer a problem, my hunger set in. Did you know how awesome fire-roasted-beef-jerky is? It tastes like a very well done steak. Jerky, trail mix, fruit and granola bars made a great dinner. I'm warm, fed, and now ready for bed. A little uncomfortable sleeping on the ground, but the pine bows helped. Waking up every 30-45 minutes to throw another log on, my fire stayed hot all night long. I only had to get up, three times, to feed more of the night-log into the fire. Morning is approaching, the air is cold, and light begins to creep across the sky, as I throw the last bit of firewood on.

Sunlight, alas, the night has ended. I pack up, and let the bike warm up. Taking inventory of my water supply, I realize that I can only spare 2 quarts. I spread out the ashes, kick in the rocks, and remove what is left of the night-log. I do my best to extinguish the fire, before heading back to camp. Back tracking, in the daylight, I see all the wrong turns I made the night before. As I work my way home, I ponder: would any of my friends survive the night? My dad would have, his life long friend would have. Would you have? Could you survive? For just one night, alone, in the White Mountains of Arizona, would you survive?
