The President's Message

by Scott Francom, APC President

Mark Zepp is one of the pillars of the predator calling industry. His top-notch DVDs, stellar mouth calls, and honest easy going demeanor make him a well-liked individual in most circles. At PredatorHuntingForums.com we had the pleasure to have Mark making regular blog posts for a year or so. Oftentimes when I am short on time for the President's message I read through his blog posts to get ideas for a topic. Reading an accounting of the lion he took here in AZ made me realize I could not think to convey what he was trying to post if I rewrote the gist of it so I just decided to copy and paste it in its entirety. Here it is in Mark's own words-

There was a hard, thick frost on the grass fairway that surrounds the place my wife, Amber, and I have come to call home in the desert and foothill country of southeastern Arizona. A region that, if you're a predator caller, gets four perfect months of weather each year, November through February. One hundred and twenty days of paradise, high 20s and low 30s at night and 50 to 60 degrees at the peak of the day. Great calling weather for coyotes, bobcats, fox and, if you happen to be in the right place at the right time, a mountain lion. Tucson made headlines a few summers ago when a lion was seen eating out of an elementary school dumpster just a few miles from our house. I knew at that point that there really was a chance to fulfill a hunting dream of mine: call in a mountain lion and shoot him on film.

Gary Keller and his wife, Mary, from northern Michigan, are considered "snow birds" in this part of the country. The Keller's spend part of their winters in an RV park in Tucson and, it just so happens, that is where this incredible journey begins.

Gary called me last year when he and Mary were in town and inquired about spending a day out in the desert blowing into some calls and killing a few coyotes. Between my travel schedule for my job with Tri-Tronics and running our call business, requests like this, unfortunately, have a way of not working out. And it didn't. I told Gary I couldn't work him into my schedule but he was gracious and understanding and showed up at a seminar that Eddie Hawkins and I were giving in town a few weeks later. We shook hands and agreed to give it a try on his next trip to Arizona the following year.

And a year later, he pulled into my driveway in his new Dodge, Hemi and all, raring to chase some predators. He had just seen a group of coyotes that call the greens and fairways in the middle of our city their home. It was obvious he needed to get settled down and, as I do for all my guests, I had the perfect solution, coffee

Hunt Report

by Dusty Mosier, Hunt Chairman

Well the Multi-Club Hunt was a big disappointment, only four teams from APC showed up to the check-in. We had three coyotes in our pile when I left, and XPC had a long string going. They beat us last year to take the contest and pounded us this year. We are going to need a lot more participation if we ever hope to win it again.

Antelope Eaters hunt is on the 17th & 18th of March in Seligman. This hunt typically draws well over a hundred teams from all over and quite a lot of money is given away as prizes. If anyone wants more information on this hunt please see me at the meeting.

We will be sponsoring the Save-a-Fawn Hunt in Heber on the 31st of March & the 1st of April. We are hoping to have a large turn-out, so far it looks like the check-in will be at the Red Onion restaurant. APC will pick up the tab for dinner. Please write this one on your calendar.

Please make sure that you are filling out your hunt records, I will be asking for them in April.

Be Safe, Have Fun, Shoot to Kill !

Antelope Eaters Hunt XXIII

March 17- 18, 2012

Fellow Sportsmen & Women:

The Mohave Sportsman Club is announcing that our annual coyote suppression hunt, Antelope Eaters XXIII is set for March 17-18, 2012 again to be headquartered out of Seligman Arizona which is located about 70 miles east of Kingman on historic Highway 66.

This year's event promises to be the biggest and best yet! This year we are giving away as raffle prizes sponsored by the MSC, not one but TWO rifles. Rifle one is a Rock River Arms Predator Pursuit AR15 in .223 caliber. Rifle number two is a Savage Axis fully camo bolt action rifle with a 3 X 9 scope in 22-250 caliber. These rifles are in addition to many, many more prizes that have been donated from folks all over the country that sponsor what we do.

YOU DO NOT HAVE TO PARTICIPATE IN THE HUNT OR EVEN BE THERE FOR THE DRAWING ON MARCH 18, 2012 TO WIN THESE PRIZES!

Raffle tickets for these prizes are just $5 each or five for $20 and can be ordered from the MSC @ P.O. Box 869, Kingman AZ 86402 or through me at 2644 Broken Arrow Street, Kingman AZ 86401-7335 (I sold the winning ticket for the grand prize rifle last year!)

In addition, we are honored to have Mr. Fred Eichler, noted varmint caller, big game guide and host of one of the best television shows around, PREDATOR NATION as our special guest. And Fred has agreed to have one of our hunters be his partner on this hunt! If you want to win this very unique opportunity to hunt with one of the best, we are selling raffle tickets for this at $5 each or five for $20. Again you can get these through our club or through me at the addresses listed above. The deadline to buy tickets is February 24, 2012 when we will draw the name of that lucky hunter. This will give you plenty of time to make arrangements to meet Fred here for the hunt! This is an opportunity to hunt with a legend in our sport and for those that don't win, you'll still have the opportunity to meet him at our check in each day!

The format is the hunt is simple. We want you to go hunt coyotes anywhere in northern Arizona and help our our antelope and other wildlife but reducing their numbers a bit at a time when fawns are getting ready to hit the ground.

The entry fee for the hunt is $50 for one or two persons, and $75 for a three person team. So pick your best hunting partner(s) and come on down and experience Arizona's predator hunting!

You can download an application by going to the club's website, Mohave Sportsman Club <<http://www.mohavesportsmanclub.com>> and click on to Antelope Eaters.

Or you can call me @ 928-303-9481 or e-mail me at awoguide@ctaz.com and I'll get you an application or answer whatever questions you have.

Hope to see you there! Good luck and good hunting!

and donuts at the local Circle K and plenty of terrific conversation during our hour-long drive.

Between the coyotes, the coffee, and the donuts, Gary was officially fired up. He didn't much care what we got after as long as the coffee was hot and the conversation was good.

A couple of days before our hunt, I had gone into some great looking country with intentions of calling some cats, but the wind just would not cooperate. It wasn't blowing hard, but it was swirling around almost twister like. About the time I thought I had it figured out, it changed direction again. Everyone who's ever hunted with me or attended a seminar knows my feelings about the wind. If it's not right, don't go in. I walked into a couple of great looking places, kicked out several mule deer and javelina, but never blew into a call. I walked, drove, scouted, and enjoyed the afternoon before heading back to Tucson. This country looked perfect and was a predator caller's dream, which was the sole reason I didn't want to slime it up unless wind conditions were perfect. It had "little cat" and "big cats" written all over it and when I mentioned it to Gary and told him there might even be a chance at a lion, he cheerfully shelled out several hundred dollars for his out of state license and lion tag. To me, this is where the story starts to get interesting because Gary thought, through our short phone conversation and even shorter friendship that Eddie and I regularly call and kill mountain lions. He was under the impression that, since I mentioned buying a lion tag, it was a forgone conclusion that we would easily call in several of them in the day or two we had to hunt together. The fact is that neither Eddie nor I had ever even seen a lion in the countless hours and thousands of stands we had made together over our years of hunting. He must have known something we didn't because only a few hours later we would make a bit of predator-calling history.

Now, to back this story up a little bit, a week earlier I had been in southeastern Texas for a photo shoot and to spend a couple days with my buddy, David Jones. David raises nationally known Springer Spaniels as well as hog dogs. We set a few hog traps and feed a few deer on the ranch he manages. We even managed to call and kill some coyotes, but the country was a little too thick to film it well, and we encountered hot, humid conditions. I shoot photography as part of my job and have been down to that part of the world a few times and have had camera problems each time I've returned home. So it was only natural that upon my return from Texas, as soon as Gary and I started hunting, I had camera problems. My big camera would run a little and then shut down and then just quit working. Anyone who makes hunting DVD's has had camera problems and mine came at the most inopportune time. I had $10,000 in camera gear along for the day and, in no time, I was down to an inexpensive handheld video camera.

I put my FoxPro FX3 in the fork of a tree limb about five feet off the ground. I always try to give the call a little elevation for maximum range with the remote and I think it helps the volume reach out and cover a little more country. Then I positioned Gary in a good looking spot. I knew going into it that if anything got out in front of him I wouldn't be able to see it. His view was limited but I didn't feel comfortable with him sitting next to me where the shot would be longer and the inability to drive a set of shooting sticks into the ground. After all, he was shooting my rifle, he didn't have his along on the trip, and I had absolutely no idea what kind of shooting skills he possessed.

I blew into my Rattler and waited a minute and then turned on my FX3. I was comfortable, the country was beautiful, and before I could really settle in and get relaxed, we were literally four or five minutes into the stand, I looked up and saw a lion trotting into the call about 150 yards out. The first thing I did was dig the little camera out of my coat pocket, turn it on, and stand up. I knew no one else had a lion on tape and if she spooked so be it, but I had 110% confidence in my Realtree MAX-1 camo. I also new she was keyed in on the FoxPro. Without either of these, things would not have gone our way. She hung up for a minute or two in some thick cover about 80 yards away and I know it was because she saw movement when I stood up and I was completely exposed. Other than the MAX-1, I didn't have so much as a twig of cover around me. I caught glimpses of her as she slowly moved through the mesquites, but I was struggling to find her on the screen of the little camcorder. Keep in mind, I've known this lion was close for a few minutes at this point and, from his angle and view, Gary still didn't know she was around. That's one of the reasons we don't hunt a lot of country like this when we're filming. You just can't see well enough. Even with a shooter sitting next to you there's too many times you stop the critter for the camera and your partner doesn't have a shot. She finally stepped out at the cover and stood in the open looking at me for about 20 seconds. According to my rangefinder, she was about 60 yards away from me. I knew this was most likely a once in a lifetime deal for me and I triple checked the camera to make sure time code was running. She turned towards the FoxPro and moved closer to the call. She was belly crawling in when Gary saw her and instinctively shot her, only 25 yards away. The .223 HK630 topped with a Leupold 4-12X and powered by a Federal .45 grain ballistic tip found its mark to both lungs and the heart. She went about 85 yards and was done. It was the first time Gary had looked through the scope or pulled the trigger on my rifle. He had left his at the house because he and Mary had planned to drive into Mexico, but had heard about the increasing theft problem south of the border.

And, just like that, we became the first call company to call, film, and harvest a mountain lion.

Guys like the lion king, Steve Craig, in northern Arizona make a living out of calling lions for clients and several lucky callers harvest lions each year here in the state, but it hasn't been done on tape. Hounds men like the famous Lee Brothers and more recently the father-daughter team Warner and Kelley Glenn, guide horse/mule back hunts and help ranchers and Game and Fish harvest problem lions for clients.

According to the Arizona Game and Fish, mountain lions can breed at any time of the year, but summer months are the most common birth dates and litter sizes are usually 2-4 kittens. They remain with their mother for about 18 months before dispersing and, for the most part, adults are solitary animals, meaning they don't travel in packs or have a family structure like coyotes. Young lions will obviously accompany their mother, but as a general rule, the only other time they are with other adults is for breeding purposes. Whitetails, mule deer, javelina, and a few cattle mixed in for trouble make up the major part of their diet, and they usually kill one of these every 6 to 12 days. Roughly 250-350 lions are killed each year in Arizona. A male's travel range is between 20 and 150 miles, a female's between 10 to 50 miles.

We're just happy our lion happened to be traveling through our neck of the woods last January.

Arizona: House Committee Hearing Scheduled for Pro-Hunting Legislation

Please Contact Committee Members TODAY and Respectfully Urge Them to Support HB 2728!

Arizona House Bill 2728, NRA-backed pro-hunting legislation introduced earlier this week by state Representative David Gowan (R-30), is scheduled to be heard by the House Committee on Military Affairs and Public Safety on Wednesday, February 8th. Enactment of HB 2728 would allow hunters in Arizona to use lawfully-possessed suppressors (also referred to as silencers) on firearms for hunting. This bill needs your support! Please contact committee members and request their support of this pro-hunting legislation.

In order to acquire a suppressor, a purchaser must submit the appropriate paperwork to the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives where long wait times for approval are unfortunately common (four to six months), undergo a background check by the FBI, find a licensed dealer authorized to conduct the transaction and pay a one-time $200 tax for each device. While suppressors do not eliminate the sound of a firearm, they do reduce the muzzle report in a manner similar to the way that a muffler reduces exhaust noise from a vehicle. The benefits associated with suppressor use include increased accuracy due to reduced recoil and muzzle blast, protection from hearing damage and reduced noise pollution.

Noise complaints are being used more frequently as an excuse to close shooting ranges, informal shooting areas, and hunting lands throughout the country. Increased use of suppressors will help to eliminate many of these complaints and protect hunting and shooting areas well into the future. For more information on firearms and suppressors, click here.

Currently, more than half of the states allow hunters to use suppressors while hunting. It's time that hunters in Arizona enjoy these same opportunities available to residents in more than half of the country. Your NRA will continue working to legalize suppressors while hunting, and will keep you updated on HB 2728.

It is important that you call AND e-mail House Military Affairs and Public Safety Committee members TODAY and respectfully urge them to support HB 2728.
