The President's Message

by Rich Higgins, APC President

Humane Society of the United States, AKA HSUS, has stated their mission objective. "We are going to use the ballot box and the democratic process to stop all hunting in the United States. We will take it species by species until all hunting is stopped in California and then we will take it state by state."

They have allied themselves with CBD, Project Coyote and other antihunting organizations and have successfully lobbied against coyote contests in California, Oregon and Idaho. They are active in Colorado and have made gains toward ending contests in New Mexico. This past week they staged loud, well publicised protests against Predator Masters annual convention in Tucson. Three of their lawyers visited AG&F Director Voyles and petitioned him to place a moratorium on ALL coyote hunting for the next five years to "see what happens". They would try to use a coyote killing moratorium test in Pima County to prove that coyote hunting is not necessary in Arizona. They have petitioned Pima county commissioners to help end coyote hunting in Pima county. This is far beyond coyote calling contests; it is anti hunting coming through the back door.

This attack on coyote hunting is an initial gambit in their overall strategy to "end hunting step by step". We have been targeted because they perceive us to be the lowest hanging fruit, the most vulnerable because they believe that predator callers are the least organized and the smallest in number. They have made a tactical and strategic mistake because of that belief.

My friend Kelly Lewis is the president of Xtreme Predator Callers. My friend Ken Eaton is president of Phoenix Varmint Callers. I am a member of those clubs and for every Rich Bushong and Chris Hastie and Mark Miller there is a counterpart in each club. We are them and they are us and we are united in resistance to this assault on hunting.

Jim Arterburn, Jim Schmidt and Hank Scutoski are preparing a course of action for APC members and it will be posted on the APC website by Jim O'dell. Click onto the page often for updates of names and phone numbers of politicians and reps who listen to their constituents.

Be aware that this attack on hunting is concerted and dangerous. The greatest threat that we face right now is not from the the anti hunting groups but from a lack of participation by all of us. Take nothing for granted. Channel your worries, concerns and fears for our sport and let them fuel your responses to this threat and motivate you to raise your voice and be heard as an active, passionate, voting hunter.

Arizona trappers suffered a significant defeat in 1994 because they did not present a united front. We must enlist the active support of all sportsman's groups. Many hunters are reaching out to all of the hunting and shooting associations and organizations to help us unite and present a solid front to stop HSUS, CBD, Project Coyote and any and all allies from enjoying any success in our state.

Please attend the general meeting Thursday Feb. 12 and hear Jim Schmidt address this crisis.

Hunt Report

by Dusty Mosier, Hunt Chairman

Saturday morning, 24 January, it was 25 degrees and the sky was just starting to turn light gray. John Arterburn and I had just arrived at our first stand of the day on the Multi-Club Hunt. We were a dozen or so miles northwest of Camp Verde sitting near an old road next to a pasture and everything was quite. I set out my FX3, laid a piece of antelope fur over a fence and we split up to cover our areas. I was too far away from the caller to hear it, but I knew that coyotes could. Ten or so minutes later I heard something, it was a wild boar moving along the ridge behind me. I thought about shooting it, but we were after predators, so I let it pass. Minutes later a doe came down the ridge and ended up only 40 yards in front of me totally unaware. At about the same time a small herd of cattle was moving along the fence line, each one stopping to smell the antelope hide. This was so cool, all these animals were at ease and relaxed with my call blaring away (I thought).

After almost an hour, John walked up and told me that my caller had never come on. We had been sitting there in silence the whole time. Neither one of us can hear very well, probably due to our time served in the army many years ago. Well hell, we'll try it again. So we packed up and moved on.

The next stand proved to be a challenge, as everywhere that looked good was too close to a house (using a laser range finder to check). As we were driving around, we spotted a coyote next to the road, waiting for us to pass so it could cross. There was a mad scramble for a weapon and then I exited the truck to try a get off a shot. It had played this game before and didn't hang around very long.

The rest of the day was spent working our way down I-17 calling a dozen stands. Late that afternoon we were calling next to a corral and John spotted a lone coyote leaving. We moved a couple of miles down the road and set up again. This time I saw a coyote leaving, with a shot in front it turned around and ran across the face of the hill in front of me. Two shots later it was down. John went to retrieve it, and after a short search he found it. One dog in the truck! On our last stand we called in a beautiful sunset, it was time to hit the road to the check-in. PPCI and XPC had 6-8 coyotes each and we (APC) had several coyotes and a pair of lions. Looks like we will be hosting the hunt next year.

We will have a novice/club hunt on the 14th of February, concentrating on Unit #21. We call this the Unit 21 Valentine Hunt. Please see the map to the check-in location on page 5 of this newsletter. The Antelope-Eaters hunt will be held on 7-8 March in Seligman. Our Save-A-Fawn Hunt will be on 21, March in Heber. Please remember that your hunt records are due on 9 April at the general meeting. If you want to be considered for any of the prizes you will have to turn in a record. The winners of all the awards will receive a gift card along with their plaque, so it is worth your time to keep track of your kills. Even if you were not able to get out this past year, I still need to hear from all of you.

Be Safe, Have Fun, Shoot to Kill!

Dusty

ARIZONA GAME AND FISH DEPARTMENT

MANAGING TODAY FOR WILDLIFE TOMORROW

www.azgfd.gov

Arizona Game and Fish issues notice of intent to sue federal officials over Mexican wolf recovery plan development

Jan. 6, 2015

The Arizona Game and Fish Department today served a Notice of Intent with the secretary of the Department of Interior and director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service). The action was taken in an effort to support development of an updated recovery plan for Mexican wolves that utilizes the best available science as legally required by the Endangered Species Act (ESA).

Game and Fish has requested an updated recovery plan from the Service on multiple occasions over the past several years because the current recovery plan for Mexican wolves developed in 1982 is so outdated that it no longer provides an adequate framework to guide the recovery effort. That plan also fails to identify the recovery criteria required by the ESA including downlisting and delisting criteria.

"This Notice of Intent is an effort to ensure that the Fish and Wildlife Service adheres to its legal obligation to develop a thorough science-based plan that will lead to a successful recovery outcome that recognizes Mexico as pivotal to achieving recovery of the Mexican wolf given that 90 percent of its historical range is there," said Arizona Game and Fish Department Director Larry Voyles.

Bi-national recovery plans for endangered species have been successfully established with Mexico for other species including Sonoran pronghorn, Kemp's ridley sea turtles and, most recently, thick-billed parrots. The department asserts that to succeed, Mexican wolf recovery must include an integrated, bi-national approach that incorporates the recovery work already underway in Mexico.

"I fully support today's action and I look forward to working with the department to develop a legal and sound plan for the recovery of the Mexican wolf," said Arizona Attorney General Mark Brnovich.

The Service is currently in litigation with several parties that are pushing for reestablishment of Mexican wolves in areas that are not part of the subspecies' historical range and requesting a resolution in an unreasonable timeframe. These groups are basing their litigation on a draft report developed by a Mexican Wolf Recovery Science and Planning Subgroup. The department completed extensive analysis of the subgroup's recommendations and found the science used as a basis for the recommendations to be significantly flawed. This misguided approach could jeopardize genetic integrity of the subspecies if the Mexican wolf is permitted to reestablish in close proximity to Northern gray wolves.

Secretary Sally Jewell of the Department of Interior has 60 days to respond to the Notice of Intent. If the secretary fails to respond, the department will pursue civil action. A Notice of Intent is a required precursor to pursuing civil action.

Arizona Game and Fish's involvement in Mexican wolf conservation began in the mid-1980s. Since that time, the department has spent more than $7 million on wolf recovery in the state and has been the predominant on-the-ground presence working to manage Mexican wolves.

For more information on Mexican wolves, visit www.azgfd.gov/wolf.

Arizona Game and Fish Department seeks input on game management hunt guidelines

Jan. 7, 2015

The Arizona Game and Fish Department is accepting comments on improving the hunt guidelines to continue the sustainable management of the state's game animals, while providing as much hunting recreation as possible.

Comments on the existing hunt guidelines may be submitted through Feb. 15, 2015, either by e-mail to azgamebranch@azgfd.gov, or by mail to Hunt Guidelines, Arizona Game and Fish Department, 5000 W. Carefree Highway, Phoenix, AZ 85086.

"This is the public's opportunity to get involved in the nuts and bolts of this bi-annual process," said Big Game Management Supervisor Amber Munig. "We are seeking your ideas, comments, concerns, or observations on how to meet the many demands by our varied hunting public, as well as fostering new opportunities for continuing our hunting heritage for future generations."

The hunt guidelines provide the biological and social parameters that make up the "recipes" used by wildlife managers to formulate the annual hunt recommendations (season structures, season lengths, season dates, permits allocated, etc.) and results in the hunts in which sportsmen, women and children participate.

However, wildlife biologists note that while wildlife is held in the public's trust, and hunting opportunity is important, using science-based principles in shaping the guideline process remains paramount to assure healthy, sustainable, and diverse wildlife populations in perpetuity.

After all the comments are received, reviewed and processed, the department will host public meetings across the state to present the proposed revisions, answer questions, and collect any further public input. A final draft will then be prepared and posted on the department's website prior to being presented to the Arizona Game and Fish Commission in September.

The existing hunt guidelines, as well as information on the hunt guidelines process, can be found at www.azgfd.gov/huntguidelines.
